

eXpresso™, Covisint Team Up to Offer Microsoft® Office Collaboration

Partnership to Market Real-time Document Sharing Application

PALO ALTO, CA – eXpresso Corporation, a pioneering provider of online community solutions for business, has reached agreement with Compuware Corporation (NASDAQ: CPWR). The agreement extends Covisint's collaboration platform and ecosystem to now include the eXpresso subscription-based service, enabling real-time Microsoft Excel collaboration globally.

eXpresso is an SaaS application that brings instant file control and distribution across Web-based computing platforms. eXpresso business communities (focused on Microsoft Office applications) use a patented invitation process and are governed by a system of rights and privileges. Changes to a file in eXpresso are documented in real time and generate an audit trail detailing changes down to the cell level.

Manufacturing Supply Communities are core constituencies of eXpresso. Covisint is the world's largest and most secure on-demand collaboration platform serving more than 45,000 organizations in the automotive, healthcare, financial and other manufacturing sectors. Users will be able to subscribe to the eXpresso service through Covisint and establish relationships with colleagues and vendors to share and collaborate on Office documents.

"The businesspeople who use Covisint already see the advantage of community collaboration in the Cloud. eXpresso extends that value by adding the capability to securely manage the application most organizations already rely on for many vendor relationships: Excel", says eXpresso CEO, George Langan. "eXpresso is a natural fit with both the Covisint platform and its users. This will dramatically extend our reach and rapidly introduce us to the businesses that need eXpresso the most."

"Covisint's on-demand collaboration platform helps business communities securely access, use and share time-sensitive information," said David McGuffie, President of Covisint. "This eXpresso partnership extends our core value in a unique way, enabling Covisint's hundreds of thousands of users to
